Update to Golf Canada policies

Hello Golf Canada Member Clubs,

We hope that you all had a great winter and that your preparations for the start of the primary playing season are going well.

The purpose of this email is to inform you about an update to Golf Canada policies. During the winter, the Golf Canada Board of Directors approved an updated policy that formally outlines the existing benefits received by Golf Canada member clubs (e.g., course rating, World Handicap System, marketing resources, etc.) and conditions of membership (e.g., payment terms for membership fees) for Golf Canada member clubs. The policy is called the Golf Canada Member Club and Facility Policies & Procedures. In large part, this policy simply articulates the existing membership relationship between Golf Canada and member clubs and will not change your current operations.

There are two new topics included in this policy related to Golf Canada's role as a National Sport Organization (NSO) that are worth noting specifically.

The first is Safe Sport. As you all know, the importance of this topic has increased in recent years in the Canadian sport system, and is something that Golf Canada takes very seriously. In section 5.d of this policy, it is noted that member clubs are expected to support an environment free from maltreatment and prohibited behaviour in a manner materially aligned with Golf Canada's Safe Sport policies and any specific provincial policies related to Safe Sport. In addition, member clubs are expected to inform Golf Canada or its provincial association of any credible allegations of maltreatment, prohibited behaviour or known material breaches of Golf Canada's Safe Sport policies.

As a new membership benefit, member clubs are now provided with the option of using Golf Canada's independent third-party reporting service, ITP Sport, for Safe Sport reporting and complaint review should clubs seek to include a confidential reporting processing into their own Safe Sport policies. Golf Canada will cover the cost associated with reporting and complaint review by ITP Sport. Should an investigation be necessary, the parties involved would be responsible for additional associated costs. Clubs can access the ITP Sport reporting service at the bottom of Golf Canada's Safe Sport website.

The second new topic is diversity, equity, and inclusion. Section 5.e of this policy stipulates that member clubs may not have by-laws that discriminate on the basis of sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, race, ethnicity, disability, or language. The focus of the policy is on major items like club membership. Operational items like men's or women's leagues, tee time preferences at certain times of the week, etc., are not impacted. Virtual clubs (sometimes known as "clubs without property") that do not operate a golf course are also not affected. Member clubs will have until the 2024 season to comply with section 5.e of the policy.

The items related to Safe Sport and diversity, equity, and inclusion in this policy help Golf Canada meet the modernized expectations that stakeholders like Sport Canada have for National Sport Organizations. In addition, they reinforce to the general public that golf is both safe and inclusive, and help to dispel outdated perceptions of our sport.

As mentioned previously, this updated policy is not expected to change current operations for most clubs.

In addition, you are invited to attend an interactive webinar on Thursday March 30th at 3:00pm ET (English).
